THE LISTENING POST

● I never knew this until now, for rest assured here was a yarn that would have been a knockout had it been known in time. It would have tied up so nicely with a story that made every front page in the world, with a neat local angle, and boy, how this newspaper would have liked it that way. But I failed to know it, for after all, a mere newspaper man can not be expected to know everything, and this was one thing I did not know then, and in fact did not know until yesterday.

● But better late than never, and the story still has a pretty good local angle at that, and thanks to some folks who are always helping me in this column I am filling it today with this story that would have been a knockout at the proper time. It still is a good yarn, and it is true, too.

● Remember Douglass Corrigan, the young Irishman who flew to Ireland in a nine hundred dollar plane which had no instruments save a compass, and when he landed in old Ireland he looked around and asked if he was in California? Sure you do. Everybody remembers Corrigan, nor will they soon forget him, for there was something so youthful, so daring, so casual and so engaging that the word at once compared Corrigan with that other Lone Eagle who spanned the Atlantic from New York to Paris, and after landing told airport officials quite casually that he was "Charles Lindbergh from New York." Yes, everybody remembers young Corrigan and will continue to remember him. I only hope that he doesn't keep on flying the famous old crate until he makes the headlines again with a fatal crash. That old crate should be retired from service and placed in a museum alongside the famous Spirit of St. Louis.

● So you do remember Corrigan? All right, but did you know that he at one time had an aunt in Fulton and visited here several times while a child? In fact, he spent one entire summer here and there are several people who recall the family.

● Mrs. G. E. Alverson, who lived in Fulton for many years and died only a few years ago, was a sister to Corrigan's mother, and several years ago, when Mrs. W. W. Morris was planning a visit to San Antonio, Texas, Mrs. Alverson asked her to look up her sister, Mrs. Corrigan, and a delightful friendship was the result. Later Mrs. Corrigan and two children visited Mrs. Alverson for a few weeks, and the following summer they came back and spent the entire summer. One of those children was Douglass, who, years later was to start to California and wind up in Ireland. The Morris family remembers Mrs. Corrigan and Douglass quite well.

● Thus you see, Fulton gets on the airplane may again for Charles Lindbergh also came to Fulton in the days when he was an obscure mail pilot. This town has entertained two of the most famous aviators of the present age. But how I wish that I had known all this on the day when young Corrigan so blithely set his ancient plane down on Ireland's famous and storied soil.

Gold Bricks' Owners Paid

Canandaigua, N. Y.—Mrs. Virginia Venturoli and her son Albert, of Buffalo, got the value of their two gold bricks back from the United States Government today. The bricks were worth $1,250.

When the Venturolis left Italy they converted their life savings into the bricks. They tried to convert them at the Buffalo Federal Reserve Bank. The bricks were confiscated under the Gold Act.

Treasury officials today ordered the Venturolis recompensed. The latter said they did not know they had to declare the bricks.

Europe Arming After Failure Of Peace Talks

Britain Takes Defense Steps Pending Report Of Prime Minister

London.—The indicated collapse of the Chamberlain-Hitler negotiations for a peaceful settlement of Czechoslovakia's fate tonight brought swift military preparations in Europe in anticipation of a lightning German invasion of the neighboring republic.

Prague, with an army general, Jan Syrový, at the head of a new government, broadcast an order for general mobilization.

France put its already highly geared fighting forces in readiness for an emergency.

British ministers, in the absence of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, were believed to have taken far-reaching defense steps.

The measures in Britain were reported to extend to all branches of the fighting services and especially to the naval and air forces.

British took it for granted that Chamberlain had dispensed of hope of restraining Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler from taking military action pending partition of Czechoslovakia under the Anglo-French plan.

Key ministers conferred on emergency war preparation during the day and there was a further meeting during the night.

The pro-governmental Daily Telegraph and the morning Post reflected the general view of the London Press with an editorial which said:

"On the information before us it is clear that the Godesberg negotiations have broken down without any kind of a settlement."

Smoking Room Period Granted School Pupils

Monterey, Tenn.—Leonard Crawford, principal of Monterey High School, announced today that he had set up a smoking room in the school building where high school boys may have a five-minute smoking period at 10 a. m. each day.

"The room was arranged as a precaution against fire hazards and to discourage boys from 'stealing' opportunities to smoke on the school grounds," Crawford explained. "The project looks as if it will be a success. It is a matter that has been under consideration for some time."

There are more than 200 high school students and about 500 elementary pupils housed in the same building, but only the high school boys are allowed to smoke. "The high school girls are excluded," said Crawford. "They have never shown any inclination to smoke."

First Baptist Revival Services Will Begin Tomorrow Morning

The series of Revival Services in the First Baptist Church of this city begins Sunday morning. A very appropriate beginning for this series of meetings is being had tomorrow morning in the form of the Annual Promotion Day program of the Sunday School. This program will begin at 9:30 in the classes and departments. The entire Sunday School will come into the church auditorium at 10:15 for the prepared promotion program. There will be no morning preaching service separate from this program but the pastor will bring his message as a part of this promotion program. Those who attend only the preaching service are advised to be present by 10:30 instead of 10:45. This promotion program and morning service will be concluded by Supt. Valentine as he makes a call of consecration for all Sunday School officers and teachers. With this group at the front of the church the pastor will close the service with a prayer of consecration.

Sunday evening pastor Fuller will use as his subject: "If My People." Beginning Monday the services will

EDGAR A. PATTERSON
Tulsa, Okla.

Edgar A. Patterson, Director of Church Activities in the First Baptist Church of Tulsa, Okla., who is to direct the music and personal workers in the revival in the First Baptist Church, Sept. 25 to Oct. 9. Mr. Patterson is a man of unusual ability in his particular field of endeavor. He has had much experience in some of the great churches of our southern cities. He has been at his present position with the church in Tulsa for seven years. This is a fine opportunity for the people of the community to meet a great character and follow him in inspirational gospel singing.

Hitler's Army Prepares For War As Henlein's Troops Are Failure

Berlin.—The Free Corps which Konrad Henlein organized to help put Sudetenland under the German swastika appeared tonight to be unworkable and Reichsfuehrer Hitler's Army was preparing for the worst.

So long, however, as the Godesberg talks between Hitler and British Prime Minister Chamberlain offer hope of British and French support for partition of Czechoslovakia, the Fuehrer seemed determined to keep his army and air force out of the affair.

Hitler is used to waiting—even when loss of life among Germanic people is involved—and some of the scattered clashes between the Free Corps and Czechoslovakian officials in the disputed German-Czechoslovakian borderland have resulted in death.

One Berlin newspaper estimated fifty persons had been killed since the new Czechoslovakian Government under Gen. Jan Syrový brought a stiffening of Czechoslovakian resistance.

But should the Godesberg conferences fail, there is no doubt that Hitler would accept what Germans have construed as Syrový's challenge.

Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German minority, last week from his refuge in Germany announced that 40,000 men had joined the Free Corps. Its purpose was to harass Czechoslovakian authority in Sudetenland and speed the day of "liberation."

But the use and effectiveness of the Free Corps seems to have been predicated on an assumption that only ordinary Czechoslovakian frontier guards and local police would be encountered.

Against Syrový's heavily armed and well-equipped regulars, Henlein's Free Corps would have invited suicide if it had seriously attempted to fight back at the Czechoslovakians' bristling show of power.

U. S. Financial Plans For War Are Given Out

Washington.—Federal officials have brushed up on the Government's vast powers for control of American finances in case of a European war.

They made it plain, however, the extraordinary powers authorized by law would be employed only in a serious emergency and insisted no restrictions would be imposed automatically if war breaks out abroad.

Besides the authority of the President to embargo shipments of munitions to belligerents under the Neutrality Act, financial agencies of the Government could take the following steps in event of a major war.

Steps Are Given
1.—The Securities Exchange Commission could close the stock exchanges for ten days on its own initiative and for thirty days with the President's approval.

2.—The Treasury could impose foreign exchange control to regulate the transfer of funds from and to this country.

3.—The Federal Reserve Board could curb speculation by restricting or prohibiting the use of bank credit for margin trading.

4.—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has virtually blanket authority to buy securities and to finance other agencies. This could be utilized if foreign holders of American securities tried to liquidate immediately or if foreign governments sequestered American holdings of their nationals to get cash for supplies.

Some officials said the latter device might be used widely because the Johnson Act prohibits war debt defaulters from borrowing any more money here until they pay up.

A high Treasury official said recently it was likely the Treasury would restrict the buying and selling of foreign currencies to some extent if the European war caused huge international movements of funds.

A man working on the roof of the Columbia County Court House here reported that he saw a plane plunge into the mountainside and that its wings were sheared off.

Water Valley Revival Will Begin Sunday

The revival at the Water Valley Methodist Church will begin Sunday morning September 25. The pastor, Rev. M. S. McCastlain, will have charge of the Sunday services.

He will be joined by Rev. F. A. Flatt of Chelsea Ave. Methodist Church of Memphis on Monday, who will do the preaching for the remainder of the week. Rev. Flatt has been notably successful as an evangelist in Memphis conference. A large congregation is expected to hear his message. The morning services will be held at 11 a. m. and the evening service will begin promptly at 7:30.

Mayors Ask 1 Cent Return Of Gas Tax

Mammoth Cave, Ky.—In closing session today, the Kentucky League of Municipalities adopted three resolutions of particular importance, one of which asked outright allocation to Kentucky cities of 1 cent a gallon of the State gasoline revenue.

Such a return would toss some $600,000 a year into Louisville's lap.

The league also adopted a resolution directing its legislative committee "to prepare and submit a comprehensive legislative program designed to enlarge the powers of the cities and to free them from legislative restraint, especially in fiscal matters, and to return to the cities the lost sources of revenue, which they formerly enjoyed, and to allow them to participate proportionately in revenues now collected by the State."

Paducah Has $200,000 In City Treasury For Sale Of Bonds

Paducah, Ky.—Paducah today had in the treasury $200,000 from the sale of a bond issue for purchase of a floodwall and levee system right-of-way.

Actual cash transactions between the city and property owners who gave option on the tracts, was cleared of legal technicalities, including checking of deeds and examination of titles. Another obstacle faced by the city is the condemnation of property whose owners refused prices offered by the Municipal Land Acquisition Committee.

Pending in McCracken Circuit Court are several floodwall condemnation suits. An appraisal commission, named by Circuit Judge Joe L. Price to fix a fair price on land sought by the city, went to work today.

Actual work on the $2,000,000 flood barrier likely will be delayed until early in 1939 because of litigation involving property along the proposed route, threatened at the State Flood Wall Commission, was told.

Miller Heads Demo Drive In November

Chandler And Barkley Join In Pledging Aid For All Candidates

Frankfort, Ky.—Shackelford Miller, Jr., who managed U. S. Senator Alben W. Barkley's successful campaign for renomination, was elected chairman of the state Democratic campaign committee by the State Central executive committee here today.

Choice of Miller was unanimous at a harmonious meeting at which Barkley and Gov. A. B. Chandler, whom he defeated in the August primary, joined in pledging their support to "every Democratic candidate" in the November election. The Senate majority leader was Chandler's luncheon guest at the executive mansion prior to the committee meeting.

The pair sat together at the meeting and once interrupted it to talk and shake hands for the benefit of a photographer while Lt. Gov. Keen Johnson was reading the resolution naming Miller.

"Will the sergeant at arms restore order!" shouted Robert Humphreys, committee chairman, causing laughter which drowned out Johnson's voice.

Miller, who has been counsel in Kentucky for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, said later he would give up that federal agency employment in view of his selection as campaign manager. Barkley announced a meeting in Louisville with the nine Democratic congressional candidates to discuss the campaign would be called as soon as a convenient date could be selected.

Both Chandler and Barkley urged efforts to pile up the largest Democratic majority this November that "Kentucky has ever had." Barkley urged it "not so much for individuals but for the principles of democracy."

"There has never been a time when democratic government was subject to such a challenge as it is today, not only in this country, but throughout the world," the Democratic senatorial candidate declared.

Chandler pleaded for support of all Democrats to "help me make a success of my job" as Governor "for the sake of the party and its candidates, not only this year but in the future," he added.

Dog Mourner Brings Posies

Petersburg, Ind.—Spotty, a dog owned by Rufus Fowler, sat watching friends and relatives take flowers to the casket of Mrs. Joseph O'Rourke.

The woman had been one of Spotty's best friends, which may explain why he jumped up, crossed the road to a petunia bed, chewed off several blossoms and trotted back to the O'Rourke house.

Immediately to the National Park Service includes $13,000 for extension of services at Mammoth Cave, Ky. The $2,000,000 was part of $7,734,985 in grants previously allocated to Federal projects which were rescinded by the P. W. A.

Great Power Its Own Peril

England and France have delayed, but not averted, the day of settlement with Germany. Their swift surrender, after the form but scarcely the reality, of protest, to the demands of Hitler has opened, wide and clear, his coveted pathway eastward.

The annexation of the Sudeten area is the sure prophecy, whatever diplomatic agreements to the contrary may be interposed, of the early dismemberment of the Czechoslovakian republic.

The 1,000,000 Hungarians within its borders are already moving for return to their native land. The 100,000 Poles are making a similar plea; and Hitler will see to it that both are granted. The Slovaks for a year have been agitating for autonomy. The 9,000,000 Czechs will soon be standing alone, defenseless in their isolation.

The vaunted democracies of Western Europe having yielded to the German Chancellor without a stroke in resistance, the far weaker nations of the Balkan area will be the more easily cowed.

Hungary, with its 8,600,000 inhabitants, within the last two months has become the ally of Germany, and may be made a possession, too. Poland might be inclined to resist subjugation, but it would be powerless to withstand the tremendous forces at Hitler's disposal.

The ruler of the Reich will encounter no opposition as he proceeds to penetration and exploitation of the Balkan area that would seriously threaten his designs. In Albania, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Greece, and Bulgaria are 50,000,000 people vast natural wealth and great markets for German industry. Albania is already wedded to Nazism, Yugoslavia for sometime has been drifting in allegiance and interest. King Carol is at heart an opportunist, and would not hesitate to make terms with the man who would stand before him the practically unchallenged master of Central Europe. Bulgaria is almost as German as Bavaria.

The sign painter of fifteen years ago may make real the dream of an empire that would dominate Central and Eastern Europe which kindled the vision and inflamed the ambition of the man who was to become an exile, gray, worn, and lonely, in a foreign land.

It was the intoxication of the possession of great power and the lust for its expansion which wrought the ruin of the great Frenchman who, for a season, a century and a quarter ago had Europe at his feet; and which made William an exasperated fugitive. It is this exposure of his fortunes to his own costly folly that constitutes the only visible threat to Hitler's advance to a power attained by no European ruler in two centuries.—Nashville Banner.

Business Guides

By C. E. Johnston

Director, Business Training Schools,
 International Correspondence Schools

THERE are four interrelated subjects which any person should study before he attempts to engage in any form of merchandising business for himself. These are: marketing, business finance, accounting and business law. The man who plans to start a small manufacturing concern should also be a student of production.

The ability to interpret financial statements is as important to the business executive as to the accountant. The day has passed when even the smallest business can be operated successfully without financial statements and the constant study of the information they contain.

Of the great number of men who go into business for themselves each year, only a few meet with sufficient success to enable them to continue to operate. Statisticians have estimated that from 80 to 90 per cent of all small businesses ultimately fail. The principal cause of failure is lack of business knowledge. Many small enterprises are started when a cursory study of the market available would show that there was no possibility of sufficient sales being obtained regularly to meet operating expenses, let alone to pay interest on the money invested and to yield the owner a profit. Many businesses that have the possibility of success fail because their owners have insufficient understanding of business principles and methods.

The direct aim of the business man is to make a profit out of which to support himself and his dependents and to lay aside savings in as large an amount as possible to constitute a competence for his old age. This desire to make money by engaging in business for one's self is typically American and perfectly legitimate, but cannot be fulfilled today without study of all the important aspects of business.

Mr. Fred Shelton, Mr. Alton Jeffress, Mrs. O. A. Wolbert and son, Mr. Howard Powell, Henry Jackson, Clarence Wilson, Reed Gardner, Mr. Bud Roper, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Dobson Brown, Jimmy Gardner, and Maggie Seaden.

WANTS EUROPEAN HEADS TO CONFER IN UNITED STATES

Rochester, N. Y.—Frank E. Gannett, Rochester publisher, suggested today that President Roosevelt invite heads of the European nations to confer in America in an attempt to solve "these alarming situations" in Europe.

"In spite of the unwillingness of America to become involved in European affairs," Gannett declared, "I believe this great nation is in a position to be of great service to humanity."

"If President Roosevelt should invite the real heads of the nations in Europe to a conference in America, in an atmosphere free from hate, prejudice and suspicion, it is possible they might arrive at some sane solution of these alarming situations."

Gannett, who spoke at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon, recently returned from a trip to England, where he was the guest of Lord Beaverbrook London publisher.

"People of England and France want peace," he said. "They realize what a war in Europe will mean. And most people believe, too, that if there is another great European war, it will be difficult, if not impossible, even for the United States to keep out of it."

"It is not surprising, therefore, that England and France have been trying every way possible to avoid a war over Czechoslovak situation. They would rather yield considerably to Hitler than to have a conflict at this time."

Merely Putting Off Evil Day Says McReynolds

Chattanooga.—Rep. Sam D. McReynolds (D-Tenn.), chairman of the house foreign committee, warned that "surrender" by Great Britain and France to Adolf Hitler's demands concerning Czechoslovakia means "postponement of an evil day."

McReynolds, whose home is here, saw Hitler moving eastward, gobbling up more countries.

"I am fearful that the giving in of the great powers to Hitler will mean in the course of another year the taking by him of countries to the east until he reaches the sea," he asserted.

"This would put him up against the Ukraine, Russia's rich territory and sooner or later he is likely to precipitate war in that section—probably with Russia."

McReynolds added it would have been "suicidal" for the Czechs to have undertaken to hold out after the allies had deserted them and advised the course they eventually took.

"Of course," he said, "I can see that Britain and France were acting as they saw best to keep down European war, but I am fearful that they are merely prolonging the day."

The congressman marveled at Hitler's swift success.

"It is remarkable," he said, "what he has been able to do without firing a gun. First he occupied the Rhineland, then Austria and now part of Czechoslovakia."

$50,000 Bonus For 6 Months Of Life Bared

Miami, Fla.—An unusual agreement by which a patient virtually agreed to pay his physician a $50,000 bonus if he were kept alive six months came to light in Probate Court today.

Dr. Milton L. Smith of Chicago filed a claim for $100,000 against Mrs. Jessie L. Potts of Miami Beach alleging that her late husband, William G. Potts, agreed to pay him that amount for services.

The alleged contract, signed at Chicago February 18, 1936, provided that if Potts died within six months, however, Dr. Smith was to receive only $50,000. Securities valued at $100,000 were placed in escrow with the City National Bank of Chicago.

Potts died here September 3, 1937, leaving a personal estate of $800,000.

Early U. S. Coal Field Is Worked Again

Washington.—The first coal field on the North American Continent is operating again after being closed for many decades.

Early in the days of the New World a band of Huguenot settlers settled in Woodland Valley's near what now is Richmond, Va.

Tilling the soil and hunting provided food. Wood provided fuel for the fireplaces in their little cabins. Then one settler, digging into a hillside, uncovered a deposit of black rocks.

"Rocks" Burned
The "rocks" burned. They were chunks of bituminous coal.

For scores of years the coal was cut from the hill only for fuel for the settler's stoves.

But industries began to spring up. A demand grew for the fuel to fire furnaces and forges.

More and more attention was paid to the coal. A group of "wagon mines" cut into the hillside produced hundreds of thousands of tons of coal. Operations continued until the War Between the States.

That conflict turned a great part of the State into a battle ground. Industrial activities fell off. Without capital or markets the coal mining industry was hard hit. Operations fell off and mining for decades was confined principally to household fuel proportions.

But the field wasn't forgotten. It lay virtually dormant—a reserve

Business Guides

By C. E. Johnston

Director, Business Training School, International Correspondence Schools

Someone has said that competition is the life of trade. While it may put out into trade, advertising is the power that continues to turn the wheels.

Every retail place of business is bound to advertise and the advertising will be good or bad, according to the way it is done. A clear, neat sign, attractive window display, courteous clerks, satisfied customers, all are forms of advertising. The little fellow on the side street may at least follow these forms of advertising. But progressive merchants long ago realized that only a small proportion of their prospective customers could be reached by these methods alone.

We should still be back in the horse and buggy days if the art of advertising had not made known automobiles, airplanes, air conditioning and other new products and explained the merits of goods and quoted them at advantageous prices. One wonders if the average customer realizes why advertising must be, and what it does. It isn't without reason that the large department store employs up to fifty people on its advertising staff.

Thousands of sales can be made through advertising. Sales make possible lower prices and probably improvement in goods.

Calvin Coolidge once wrote this: "A great power has been placed in the hands of those who direct the advertising policies of our country, and power is always coupled with responsibilities. No occupation is charged with greater obligations than that which pertains of the nature of education. Those engaged in that effort are changing the trend of human thought. They are moulding the human mind. Those who write upon that tablet write for all eternity. There can be no permanent basis for advertising except a representation of the exact truth. Whenever deception, falsehood and fraud creep in they undermine the whole structure. They damage the whole art."

supply estimated by the United States Geological Survey at 1,152,000,000 tons.

Now that supply is being tapped. New companies have gone into the district to cut entries into the hills; to reach the veins of coal which in some places are twenty feet thick and, geologists say, average twelve feet in thickness.

Pennsy Bills "Sale" Denied

Harrisburg, Penn. — Representative Charles Melchiorre today stacked his word against that of a former witnesses in a blanket denial of assertions that he dictated a disputed "Mr. X" statement describing "sale" of legislation in 1935.

Melchiorre, a Philadelphia Democrat, testified before a legislative investigating committee that he did not tell former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti that movie and beer bills "sold" for $150,000 and that he received $5,000 of the sum himself.

The committee is investigating political campaign charges.

His testimony corroborated that of Mike Spatoia, a Deputy Attorney General of Philadelphia who preceded him on the witness stand. It contradicted that given earlier in the day by Margiotti, Edward Friedman, former deputy under Margiotti, and Miss Mary Peach, a stenographer.

BRIDE-ELECT IS HONORED AT DINNER

A very beautiful affair was the dinner given last night by Misses Adelle, Yvonne, and Amaline Homra at their home on Norman street, honoring Miss Freida Homra, bride-elect of Johnny Nashid of Missouri.

All home and menu decorations cleverly carried out the bridal motif with a color scheme of pink and white. At four card tables place cards of miniature brides were attractively arranged and miniature wedding bells were given to each of the sixteen guests as favors. Each card table was draped with a white cloth and held a small bouquet of pink rose buds as a centerpiece. The dining room was tastefully arranged and the dining table was also draped with a white cloth, centered with a large bouquet of pink rose buds. Pink tapers in crystal holders flickered at each end of the table.

The well planned three course dinner also carried out the motif. Following the dinner the honoree was presented many lovely gifts.

W. P. A. Rolls
Reach New Peak
Of 3 Millions

Washington—Works Progress Administration enrollment reached a new peak for the fourth consecutive week today—3,102,062.

This figure, taken as of September 10, compared with a previous program peak of slightly more than 3,000,000 in February, 1936. The present program crossed the 3,000,000 mark a month ago.

Enrollment on September 10 showed an increase of 16,300 over the previous week. On September 11, last year, enrollment stood at 1,458,830.

Administrator Harry L. Hopkins had said he did not expect W.P.A. rolls to go beyond 3,100,000 on the current program.

While the new thousands were being added weekly by week, other records showed that 166,000 dropped off work relief rolls in July. W.P.A. officials said many of them had found private employment.

NAVY INTRIGUED BY PLANE TEST 30 YEARS AGO

Washington—Things had come to the point thirty years ago this week that the Navy officially recognized there might be merit in the airplane. It assigned a young lieutenant, George C. Sweet, to observe a Wright flight at Fort Myer, Va. "The Navy Department is studying the question whether such a machine would not be useful in connection with scouting work," the 1908 announcement said.
